Draft Response to API Comments - dcd.docx

Attached is the draft response to API's comments that Dom has been preparing. In brief, he has been drafting a larger scientific/technical document responding to well construction comments (over 100 pages). He has pulled material from that document and made edits to that here. It doesn't cover all of the questions, but it does that majority. I will pull together material that we have prepared on pH stability and blank analysis and send that information in a separate email.
